

O Skin Care provides new technology – ‘The Nano Mist’ treatment

SKIN care is never a one-size-fits-all regimen. The leading experts at O Skin Care understand that with each person’s uniqueness come specific solutions to different skin conditions.

In its efforts to provide cutting-edge technology to its clients, O Skin Care is proud to announce its use of additional groundbreaking anti-aging treatments using Gamma PGA with negative ions and nano-mist technology that creates a unique, 100 percent natural and exceptionally hydrating delivery system.

This revolutionary technology was pioneered by a Japan-based corporation, a company that has been engaged in extensive research and development in skincare treatment backed by science and over time has been proven effective.

Gamma PGA was first discovered in marine jellyfish and now derived from Natto, a Japanese soybean-based health food item. This element is said to be ten times more hydrating than Hyaluronic and far more elastic than collagen.

Skin treated with Gamma PGA has shown visible improvements in the areas of fitness, tone and texture.

More specifically, Gamma PGA has been proven to diminish the appearance of lines and wrinkles; to enhance the skin’s natural moisturizing capabilities; and to penetrate the skin’s deepest layers.

More than moisturizing, Gamma PGA also carries nutrients as it penetrates the skin and locks the moisture in promoting more softness and suppleness.

What makes Gamma PGA all the more appealing is that it is 100 percent natural preservative and additive free, plus it is hypoallergenic, animal-free and cruelty-free.

At O Skin Care, you can enjoy groundbreaking Facial Spa featuring Gamma PGA technology combined with the personal touch and the competent expertise of its licensed aestheticians.

The result—a relaxing, carefree time and more importantly, a more vibrant and radiant skin.

O Skin Care can customize Facial Spa treatment with its very own popular Hydrafacial to provide double hydration.

A well hydrated skin filled with Gamma PGA can quickly bridge the gaps between skin cells, diminish the pores and firm the face instantly!

Visit O Skin Care now and let them show you this groundbreaking technology that will make you look years younger!

silhouettes, bold, rich colors and the works! But drama with elegance, of course. Lou’s use of fabric is art in itself. She picks out only the best quality for functional purposes as well as luxurious comfort.

After 10 years in the competitive world of haute couture, Lou’s steady rise to success has its roots from childhood. At age six, Lou started dabbling with design because of her mother’s influence.

At the University of Santo Tomas in Manila, she pursued Fine Arts and subsequently obtained a Bachelor of Arts degree in Interior Design from the Assumption College.

Lou followed her design dreams here in LA and continued to extend her creative range with formal training from the California Design College.

This FilAm designer has definitely paid her dues. With her rigorous training and hands-on industry experience, she’s very conscious about what her clients want. She specializes in custom designs which she says, “bring out your true beauty and identity, distinguishing you from nothing close to typical.”

Lou has designed custom gowns for many celebrities such as KTLA anchor Cher Calvin, ABC news reporter Denise Dador, Sopranos star Katherine Narducci, actress and model Ruffa Gutier-rez, and many more.

I was so excited when she agreed to custom design the opera gown and sequined dress that world-class international singer and actress Stephanie Reese will be wearing during her September 27 concert at the Normandie Casino.

That the “Standing Ovation Queen” will be wearing a Lou Razon creation is yet another boost to this very special musical engagement. The audience will really be in for a treat!

Incidentally, the Reflections 20 committee has asked Lou to showcase her design during the 20th year celebration this year on November 22, 2008.

We are truly happy to give the fashion runway to Lou’s masterpieces. This year, however, we have invited distinguished women in the FilAm community to present the collection. It’s definitely a highlight to see.

To you, Lou, more power! I’m so excited to be working hand in hand with you once again.

Have a wonderful weekend!

Investing in Ayala Land’s Power Nexus in Makati

THERE are some things that just can’t wait—acquiring quality Philippine property investment is one of these. A noteworthy development to be highly considered is Senta, a 39-storey residential tower soon to rise in the bohemian and upscale community of Legazpi Village, Makati. This landmark condominium project is offered by Alveo Land (the new name of Community Innovations), an Ayala Land Company. Filipinos and their families who have embraced vibrant urban living in key cities around the world will find Senta a highly appealing place to come home to or put their money as a sterling addition to their investment suite.

Staying true to the developer’s track record of building landmark residential spaces in highly-networked places, Senta will rise a few steps from the global retail experience offered by Greenbelt. Facing the greenery of Legazpi & W. SyCip Parks, it is also within walking distance from Makati Central Business District’s top commercial and corporate offices that is reflective of an empowered urban lifestyle.

Set to be the cornerstone of Legazpi Village with its facade of full vertical glass corner panels, Senta integrates both functionality and aesthetics to provide returning overseas Filipinos with a residential living experience defined by class and ultimate comfort. A museum-inspired lobby designed by renowned architect and interior designer Ed Calma will welcome its future residents—a perfectly stylish backdrop for competent hotel-like concierge services for residents and guests.

Future Senta residents can expect to enjoy state-of-the-art amenities that cater to a variety of leisure interests and relaxation needs. Three swimming pools will be found at the podium level of the condominium: a lap pool ideal for hardcore swimmers; a children’s pool; and finally, a lounge pool with heated Jacuzzi and an outdoor theater—an unprecedented feature in high rise residential developments. The podium amenities also include a fitness gym overlooking the park; a children’s playground; and deck areas with views of the horizon for scenic relaxation. Completing Senta’s multi-sensory living experience are the different facilities found in its private roof garden. Senta’s roof deck merges top-of-the-line amenities and natural elements including a putting green, a Zen-inspired rock garden and a multi-purpose garden perfect for intimate celebrations of life.

Those excited by the superb combinations of features of Senta would do themselves well by taking steps to acquire their desired units now, according to Mr. Rex A. Mendoza, Ayala Land’s Senior Vice President for Sales and Marketing.

Mendoza says potential buyers should readily consider the generally positive footing of the Philippine economy. Interest rates, he states, have been considerably reduced and medium to long-term Philippine Stock Exchange index performance has been on the uptrend.

He likewise assures buyers that subprime-related issues do not exist in the Philippines because real estate transactions involve primary mortgage deals. He also refers to the reality that property prices of good products normally escalate through time by reasons including availability as well as the improvements taking place within the development sites. “Passing off opportunities for good buys because of unfounded fears are costly to the buyers. They can’t bring back time and roll back the prices of the properties they had eyed,” states Mendoza.

Mendoza advises buyers to learn most about their desired property and be informed of the history of the company offering the property. “In the case of Ayala Land, it looks back at a 170-year tradition of excellence and a track record of achievements anchored on commitment, integrity and reliability,” Mendoza states.

establishment of the Multicultural Health Awareness and Prevention Center under Pedro Ramirez.

The MHAP Center has expanded its services to education on not just cancer but also on diabetes and heart disease. Other services include free mammograms, pap smears and flu shots for low income and uninsured individuals, patient referrals for diagnostic and treatment services, strength training for cancer and transplant patients, cancer patient support group and the Look Good, Feel Better Program for cancer patients. Now serving at-risk ethnic communities including Filipino, Latino, Korean, Chinese and other vulnerable populations in LA, the services are culturally sensitive. They reflect St. Vincent’s long tradition and commitment to serve low income and underserved adults, children and families in its surrounding communities.

During the Sept 27 Community Health Fair, members of the Philippine Medical Association of Southern California and the Philippine Nurses’ Association of Southern California will provide health education and counseling, offer first aid and address medical concerns. The event will be made possible by the generous support of the city of Los Angeles, Brooklyn Bagels and Arrowhead Mountain Spring Water. There will also be music and entertainment during the whole day affair.

For more information on the health fair or to avail of MHAP’s other services, readers may contact Pedro Ramirez at 213-484-7765 or 213-484-7926.
