This revolutionary technology was pioneered by a Japan-based corporation, a company that has been engaged in extensive research and development in skincare treatment backed by science and over time has been proven effective.

Gamma PGA was first discovered in marine jellyfish and now derived from Natto, a Japanese soybean-based health food item. This element is said to be ten times more hydrating than Hyaluronic and far more elastic than collagen.

Skin treated with Gamma PGA has shown visible improvements in the areas of fitness, tone and texture.

More specifically, Gamma

Sharon looks back...

Too much information

On the other hand, we occasionally found ourselves feeling dyspeptic, because too much information was being stuffed into us without much thematic point or insight.

The show's weakest segment, instructively enough, was its focus on Sharon as the country's busiest product endorser. All those excerpts from her scores and scores of commercials taught us the true meaning of systems overload.

Happily, there were more treats than bleats in the TV retrospective, so the production succeeded in presenting the Megastar as a durable luminary who has lived and worked long and well—and, more importantly, has learned valuable lessons along the way.

This doesn't usually happen in the biz, where distractions and seductions often conspire to make a star rest on his or her laurels and turn in sloppy work that eventually turns off even their diehard fans.

Standards

Sharon has avoided this downbeat denouement by opting, instead, to raise her standards in her maturing years, and to use her popularity to effect the production of some "uncommercial" projects that wouldn't have been given the green light without the "insurance" provided by her involvement.

Thus has the Megastar shown that, as she matures, she's thinking less of herself and more of her audience—an enlightened state of being that all celebrities should aspire to as they mark their own anniversaries in the biz. ■

An Evening of Music and Art...

Stung by his own indifference to the lives of these children, he sought them out after a year. The result was a book, They Have Jesus, which details the lives of these children. Writing the book has been an emotional journey for Joey Velasco, as reading it would be for any reader. Joey Velasco's art works are not sold to the public but he has donated not only 12 of his originals to GK but also donated a very limited number (9 of each) of framed high quality canvas reproductions (GCLAY) of his most famous works. Proceeds from the sale of the paintings will go to GK Hapag Village In Visayas and Mindanao.

The other stars of the event will not be there in person but they will have a strong presence through the various hand made products featured at the event that have provided livelihood to GK villages. These special people are the caretakers, residents and benefactors of various US sponsored GK Villages:

GK Ray of Hope Village (Davao City Jail): GK goes wherever there is a need. Before GK, men and women inmates were housed in the same jail quarters. Now, the women stay in separate areas under conditions conducive to rehabilitation. Product: Crocheted purses, cellphone holders and caps; GK Abilan, Agusan del Norte: (Singles for Christ San Francisco Village): Coconut placemats and purses;

GK Sunshineville, Las Pinas: (CFC Fremont Chapter): raffia frames; GK Sitio Ruby, Quezon City: (Remyville and Sacramento GK Village): GK Ceramic Houses; GK Freedomville, Santa Rosa Laguna: GK tealight, house and Last Supper candles; GK Sto Nino in Las Pinas: (GK Florida Village): Xmas décor and other capiz articles; GK Towerville (UST Villages) Rosaries made from magazine strips using a very labor intensive process; Smart Amazing GK Village in Gen. Nakar Quezon & GK River Drive in Davao City: Coconut bowls and utensils and Banglos Sculptures.

Even more significant than the products themselves are the collaborative efforts among people from all walks of life to provide not just technology and capital, but a sense of hope to the residents of the GK Villages.
