MANILA – Former President Corazon Aquino is back at the hospital and is being fed intravenously as she continues to suffer from poor appetite, her son, Senator Benigno Aquino III said on Wednesday.

Mrs. Aquino, who underwent surgery for colon cancer in April, was admitted to the hospital on Tuesday, her son said, adding he was not sure whether she would stay there until Thursday or until next week.

"Nag-aalala kami, parang masama ang appetite nya. Halim-abawa may karamdaman ka, wala kang nutrients sa katawan para makalakad, e problema yun [We're worried. She has poor appetite. If you're sick and you have no nutrients in your body so that you can walk, that's a problem]," Sen. Aquino told reporters at the Manila Hotel.

The young Aquino said he and his siblings were concerned that their mother was only taking fruits and soups.

Mrs. Aquino was honored as one of this year's "Outstanding Manilans" for being a "staunch champion of democracy, peace, women's rights and empowerment."

The senator received the award in behalf of his mother.

Other recipients of the award include Senator Manuel Villar, corruption whistleblower Rodolfo Lozada Jr., taipans Henry Sy and George Ty, Philippine Daily Inquirer board chairperson Marixi Rufino-Prieto, businessmen Eugenio Lopez III and Jaime Augusto Zobel de Ayala, Regina Paz Lopez, Miguel Enriquez, and Teresita Uytiepo-Quirino.

Villar was recognized for sponsoring more than 50 bills in the House of Representative and the Senate and "for winning public trust, which translated into an impressive victory in the senatorial race by being the number one senator in May 2001 national elections," among others.

Lozada on the other hand was recognized for "his brave and unimpeachable advocacy for truth, honesty and transparency in public service, a vigorous crusade that has endangered his life and the safety of his family."

It was Lozada, who implicated President Gloria Macapagal-Arroyo and her husband, First Gentleman Jose Miguel Arroyo, in the alleged anomalous national broadband network (NBN) project. ■

Sen. Estrada's 2 kids survive H1N1

MANILA – Senator Jose "Jinggoy" Estrada's two teenage children were stricken with a mild case of Influenza A(H1N1), but have fully recovered from the disease.

Estrada said his 19-year-old daughter could have gotten the disease from the De La Salle University in Manila, the first school in the capital to have a confirmed case of A(H1N1).

The senator said his daughter could have infected her 15-year-old brother.

Estrada said his two children were hospitalized for three days and were on home quarantine for 10 days.

"Hindi dapat overacting sa A(H1N1) dahil hindi ito nakakamatay. Yung namamatay-may mga underlying causes [We shouldn't be overacting on A(H1N1) because it is fatal only to those with underlying causes]," he said.

"It's not life threatening so we should not panic," he said.

Estrada had just returned to the country from a trip to the Middle East.

The Department of Health (DoH) confirmed 131 new cases of the Influenza A(H1N1) virus on Wednesday, the most number of cases confirmed in a day so far, bringing the total number of cases to 604. (Inquirer.net)
