PAL direct flight for only $718

Round trip fare is the lowest yet for a direct flight to Manila

FOR a limited period, a roundtrip flight to Manila will only cost you $718. Starting August 1, anyone who wants to travel to the Philippines will only have to pay that $718, plus the necessary government fees, which is so far the lowest fare for a direct flight to Manila and back.

The offer is good until November 27 this year but tickets must be purchased beginning June 24 and only until July 8, 2009.

Philippine Airlines Los Angeles District Sales Manager Adrian Ingles on June 24 told members of the Filipino-American media that PAL's "UGotoMNL" program is good for those who will fly out of Los Angeles, San Francisco and Las Vegas. Ingles said the price is good for any day of the week, including weekends.

Ingles said travelers must take advantage of this promo as seats are limited and that tickets must be issued within 72 hours after reservations are made.

PAL leaves Los Angeles, San Francisco and Las Vegas via Vancouver (Canada) daily.

The promo price reflects the prevailing atmosphere in the airline industry. Ingles said that "this program is one way to entice our kababayans to visit the country at a time when most expenses have been lowered, including hotel rates if they need it, back home." He said the rate is "unbeatable" considering that it is a direct flight and will arrive very early morning at its own airport terminal (NAIA Terminal II) in Manila. The rate is about $300 less than the regular rate for this time of the year.

Additionally, in conjunction with this fare during the same promo period, PAL is also offering very attractive low fares to Philippine domestic destinations.

A non-stop flight to Manila is about 13 hours,

Ingles said. Other airlines that make a stopover in other cities take at least 17 hours and arrive in Manila mid-day when traffic is at its peak.

Meanwhile, Ingles also disclosed that two of its B747-400 series have been fully reconfigured with brand new Recaro Seats and are now equipped with huge individual monitors for each and every passenger throughout the cabin. On-board entertainment include a wide selection of movies, music and video games for kids and adults alike. He said three more PAL B747s will likewise be fully reconfigured with the same brand new amenities within the year.

In addition, PAL has ordered a new Boeing 777 aircraft that will soon serve the trans-Pacific flights. Two years ago, PAL placed an order for two 777-300ERs. Furthermore, PAL has an agreement in place to lease two 777-300ERs from GE Commercial Aviation Services, according to Boeing. The two new airplanes have a list price value of about $500 million.

In an earlier news release from PAL, Philippine Airline President Jaime J. Bautista said, "Our future fleet of Boeing 777-300ERs will allow PAL to provide the best in passenger service to the United States, while providing increased efficiency in our operations."

PAL, the national flag carrier of the Philippines, conducted its first flight March 15, 1941, and has been operating longer than any other airline in Asia. It has a modern fleet and a route network that spans 24 foreign cities and 18 domestic destinations.

The fuel-efficient 777-300ER is the world's largest long-range twin-engine jetliner and is capable of carrying approximately 365 passengers in Philippine Airlines' two-class configuration, with a maximum range of 7,930 nautical miles (14,685 kilometers). (Advertising Supplement)
